

CIVIS Summer School

Health Care Analysis in an International Perspective

University of Bucharest, July 4–7, 2022

This summer school provides a thorough introduction to health care analysis from an interdisciplinary, international perspective. It will introduce students to the theory and methodology of the social and economic evaluation of health care and health policy, bringing the issues alive with numerous case studies using different health care settings as examples. The curriculum will focus on the idea of “shaping the system”: how different actors and institutions make choices in individual settings as well as complex organizational environments.

Topics

- Health care systems around the world
- Health economics and economic evaluation
- Impact evaluation of health policies
- Quality of life
